

Prison Mates

By brodie lowrey

Chapter 1:

If today didn't start out as it did... I might have been married to patty "armpit" Smith

So I got a phone call this morning that my girlfriend had a surprise for me. So I agreed to go see her at the park. I was there hoping to just see her and no one else. But instead, I saw Patty "armpit"'s friend, Patsy Cunningham. We both hate each other, just one time she dunks me in the toilet for an hour, a world record at college.

Well, I was talking about why she was there, and Patty said that "she wants to record our best moment to post on the internet" all I wanted was just her and me on this hill. But now the moments are spoiled. So I was just out of there. But then Patty and Patsy were chasing me but I didn't know why but I just ran for it to my house. But then the police came chasing after both me and patsy I just didn't know what was happening. The police wanted us to explain why we were on that hill and that we will go to prison either way. I just said I was going to get married. So I went onto the bus with my rival and went to prison. So next time I'm going to get married to Patty she better not bring anyone with her.

Chapter 2:

So now we're on the bus on the way to prison. I'm at the window seat sitting next to Patsy so all I could see is a window. She went to sleep but then somehow took me and just made me her pillow. That's not a good way to go to prison. Because everyone else was looking at us and laughing at us. But Patsy was still not awake. And the closest prison was 500 miles away. So if I'm staying there as a pillow I'm gonna try to pass out. It worked perfectly.